City / Installation Community Partnership Brings Visit From General Reimer, Chief of Staff

Drawdowns and Fort Ord's closure left the Presidio of Monterey with excess capacity in its child care center. The City of Monterey lacked enough child care facilities. Happily, the two organizations collaborated to the advantage of both.

Research showed that most of the children at the POM Child Development Center actually lived at the Annex and that trying to gain accreditation for its two CDCs was difficult and expensive. So the Presidio closed the POM CDC and expands operations at the Annex CDC.

The Army sought new uses for the POM CDC facility since it is a fairly new building. Monterey City Manager Fred Meurer indicated the city's need for child care capacity. Installation Commander Col. Daniel Devlin and Garrison Commander Col. Peter Dausen concluded that a cooperative effort was the win/win solution, permitting the city to operate the POM CDC and allowing Presidio children to use it. This partnership has proven successful with the Soldier Field ball fields. The City of Monterey upgrades and maintains them and shares use with the Presidio. The transfer is progressing on schedule. The Corps of Engineers has approved the Report of Availability and is negotiating the lease.

The Letter of Intent was signed Oct. 21 at 11 a.m. authorizing the City of Monterey entry for inspection and minor maintenance. The signing signifies the city's right of entry to continue with negotiations toward the eventual signing of an agreement to have and operate the CDC. The method and amount of appraisal are still to be determined.

DLI and City of Monterey sign initial letter for shared-use agreement;

Former POM Child Development Center to be shared with surrounding cities

A collaborative community effort - among federal and city governments and community members - to expand the quantity of quality child care services in Monterey is moving forward.

On Oct. 21, officials from the City of Monterey and the Defense Language Institute Foreign Language Center, Presidio of Monterey, held a ceremony to mark the signing of a letter of intent that will lead to a Right-of-Entry, authorizing the City access to the facility and grounds at the now-vacant Child Development Center on the Presidio of Monterey (POM).

General Dennis J. Reimer, Chief of Staff of the U.S. Army, attended the event celebrating this milestone. The letter of intent allows the City to continue to work toward the successful implementation of a child care facility on the POM that will serve the childcare needs of both the military and surrounding community.

General Reimer came out to tour the DLI/POM installation and see first-hand the results of the cooperative efforts between the military and the surrounding community.

Monterey Mayor Dan Albert said that the successful partnerships of the past will serve both parties well in this new endeavor. "This Child Development Center is just one of the many projects that the City and the military are working on together," he said. "We are extremely pleased that General Reimer was able to come to Monterey to see the collaborative efforts we have underway here. The Defense Language Institute is a vital part of our community, and we are working to ensure that the military and the surrounding community continue our mutually beneficial relationship," Mayor Albert said.

The proposed agreement on the Child Development Center is just one in a number of thriving partnerships that the City of Monterey and DLI/POM have engaged in. Earlier this year the U.S. Army contracted with the cities of Monterey and Seaside to perform work on the Presidio of Monterey and Presidio of Monterey Annex, the former Fort Ord. This agreement authorizes the cities, under a joint partnership, to manage and maintain water distribution, storm water collection and waste water collection systems on the POM as well as to maintain streets and fences on the two locations. The City of Monterey also provides fire protection services for the DLI/POM. In addition, the City and the Army also joined in a precedent setting joint-use agreement that allowed the City to renovate the sports field complex at Soldier Field (parade grounds) on the Presidio. Both the City and the Army use the complex for a variety of activities.

The Child Development Center on the POM closed in early 1997 when DLI/POM consolidated its child care facilities on the POM Annex. The City and DLI/POM, along with the community, have been working to see if there are opportunities to reopen the child care center as a joint-use facility with the surrounding community. Colonel Daniel Devlin, installation commander at the DLI/POM, agreed that a cooperative effort on childcare services has a lot of potential because traditionally such local partnerships save money while continuing to enhance the quality and operational effectiveness of the military missions in Monterey. As in all of the shared-use agreements, the child care facility would be open to military and surrounding community members.

Mayoral Program

runs best with your support, ideas

Welcome

DLI/POM - The Presidio of Monterey Mayoral Program is designed to improve the quality of life of military personnel and their family members who reside on the Presidio of Monterey and Annex, and to provide an opportunity for all personnel to become meaningfully involved in community activities and management of the installation. (Please reference POM Pam #608-2, Sept. 1, 1998.)

The staff of the Mayoral Program consists of volunteers from the communities of the Presidio and the Annex.

Most notable are the Mayors and Vice-Mayors of each Housing Park who serve as a voice for the residents at quarterly Town Hall meetings and other meetings by providing input regarding decisions that affect the installation policies, facilities and services.

The Mayoral Program has many activities throughout the year that are coordinated or participated in by these volunteers.

A monthly publication, the Mayor's Notes, is created to help disseminate information to the community and is hand delivered by volunteer Street Representatives to an estimated 1,800 residences and other key points throughout the community.

Other activities provided and coordinated by the Mayoral Program volunteers are the Quarterly Post-Wide Yard Sales, an annual Craft/Small Home Business Fair, Holiday Events such as the Santa Drive-Thru and Easter Egg Hunt, and other community activities.

There are many volunteer positions available in the Mayoral Program. To learn more about these positions and to become a volunteer, call 242-5056 or 242-5055.

Holiday card drive begins Nov. 15 through Jan. 15

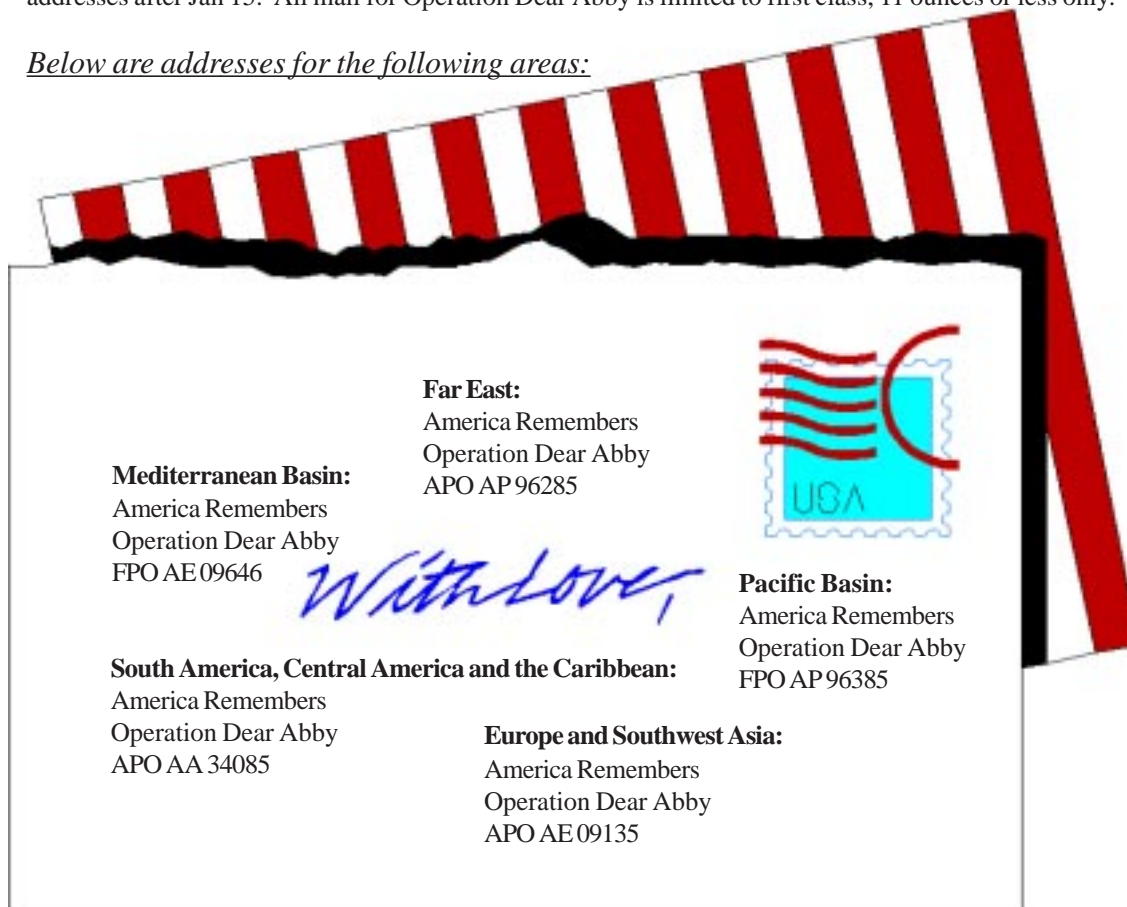

WASHINGTON (AFP) — Operation Dear Abby, nationally syndicated columnist Abigail Van Buren's annual drive for holiday cards and letters to service members stationed overseas, begins Nov. 15.

The Military Postal Service Agency has identified five addresses for use for the 1998 holiday season. MPSA targets major U.S. military aerial mail terminals and fleet mail centers overseas. The mail hubs receive the mail and distribute on a "fair share" basis to all services across the board.

Addresses other than these will not determine distribution. For example: a letter addressed to a soldier may be distributed to an airman, soldier, sailor or Marine.

The addresses will be open through Jan. 15. The U.S. Postal Service will not accept mail at these addresses after Jan 15. All mail for Operation Dear Abby is limited to first class, 11 ounces or less only.

Below are addresses for the following areas:

Addresses for troops in Bosnia are:

(Editor's Note: The Department of the Army posted a news release, Oct. 13, on www.army.mil explaining the delay in the new PT standards. The snag with the new scorecards is part of the delay. On a positive note, this delay will give service members more time to get up to speed on the max run time.)

Top NCO explains PT standards delay, corps' restructuring

by Sgt. 1st Class Connie E. Dickey

WASHINGTON (Army News Service, Oct. 13, 1998) - Sgt. Maj. of the Army Robert E. Hall told senior noncommissioned officers Oct. 12 the reason for delaying implementation of the new physical fitness test standards. Hall said there was a rumor that the delay was due to new PT score cards not being ready. The new PT card was not printed in time. That was part of the reason, the rest of it was because "we did not get the feedback from commanders," Hall said. "Only a few commanders came back with feedback in a year, so it came down to a last second delay."

Hall spoke to about 500 senior NCOs during an early breakfast before the official beginning of the annual Association of the U.S. Army meeting. His message was clear — it is time to get back to basics, be accountable and keep trusting the Army and leadership. Hall acknowledged that first priority with the senior leadership of the Army is to improve retirement benefits, with improved pay for soldiers a close second. But he wanted to know what the senior NCOs' concerns were and addressed topics brought up during the meeting.

While talking about the APFT standards, the sergeant major addressed how the new standards will affect NCO course attendance in the future. "We have sent this out to each major command's command sergeant major, so we need feedback, but the APFT will be part of the academic requirements for a course. Soldiers will be enrolled in a course, given the test, if they flunk they will be re-tested later, if they pass, fine. If they fail the second time, they will be removed from the promotion list and get a bullet of being an APFT failure on their 1059 (Service School Academic Evaluation Report). They will also be released from the course."

"I don't see this as a lessening of the standards, but rather holding the soldiers and their leaders accountable." Also, Hall said a graduated scale for points will be added to the promotion point worksheet for the APFT and basic rifle qualification. More hits means more points. "It is important to get back to basics, in everything," Hall said.

The sergeant major also addressed the Change In NCO Structure. "All it is, is re-leveling where the soldiers are and now that CINCOS is over, we've found that we don't have NCOs in the right places. A decision was made in 1996 to take the NCO structure back to the 1989 level, and we lost about 4,700 NCO positions. Actually we redistributed the NCOs from TDA to TOE units," Hall said, meaning the positions went from garrison offices to field units.

As an example of NCO shortages, Hall talked about sergeants major in the field. "This year we are short 700 sergeants major, but we found out that not everyone who is being selected for E-9 is going to the academy. Last year 55 promotable E-8s retired instead of going to the academy. I wrote them to find out why they didn't go and most of them did not want to uproot their family, so this year we let E-8s decline consideration for one year. It won't be detrimental, but we are not going to have empty seats at the Sergeants Major Academy."

"I will also tell you that 300 of those to be selected, those in the low numbers, will be involuntarily enrolled in the non-resident's course because we are short sergeants major in the field; so we are sending them out where they are needed. They will still be considered for promotion to command sergeant major, this isn't going to be detrimental to them."

He told the group that he's found — during his more than 55 trips to visit soldiers in the field — that they are concerned with pay, housing, medical care and the state of retirement, but he believes that things will improve. He said since Army leaders recognize the problems in pay and retirement benefits, they also recognize how that is affecting retention. "We made our retention goals this year, but we may not next week, and we are beginning to get the folks on Capitol Hill to understand how our system works and that many are leaving because they are dissatisfied with pay and retirement and because of the booming economy." It is hard to quantify that in numbers, Hall said, because about 72 percent of mid-grade NCOs have re-enlisted.

Hall doesn't believe that the Army is losing its best and brightest soldiers. "You always lose some of the ones you would like to keep in the military, for a lot of different reasons, but the ones we are keeping, are good troops. They are our future leaders, and there is no fluff out there. I've seen it, I've talked to drills, I have visited with basic trainees, there is just no fluff out there."

He said soldiers want to know three things from their NCOs. "Soldiers want to know if you are concerned about them, whether your focus is up the chain of command and promotion for yourself or is your focus down the chain to where they are. Soldiers want to know if they can trust you, and they can if you do what is right and what is legal, all the time. Soldiers want to be the best they can, so they want a commitment of excellence from you."

"A year ago I came up with a motto but I don't use it, 'Faith, Fundamentals and the Future.' But, I did ask you to keep the faith in the Army and in the Army's leadership, get back to the basics of 'task, condition and standards,' and keep your eye on the future, Force XXI and the Army After Next, but don't forget there is a soldier on the end of that technology."

part 1 WARTS do multiply

What causes warts?

Warts are a type of infection caused by viruses in the human papillomavirus - HPV family. There are at least 60 types of HPV viruses. Warts can grow on all parts of your body. They can grow on your skin, on the inside of your mouth, on your genitals and on your rectal area. Some types of HPV tend to cause warts on the skin, while other HPV types tend to cause warts on the genitals and rectal area. Some people are more naturally resistant to the HPV viruses and don't seem to get warts as easily as other people.

Can warts be caught from other people?

Yes. Warts can be passed from one person to another person. Warts on the hand may be passed to another person when that person touches the warts. It is also possible to get warts from using towels or other objects that were used by a person who has warts.

Warts on the genitals can be passed to another person during sexual intercourse. It is important to not have unprotected sex if you or your partner have warts on your genital area. In women, warts can grow on the cervix (inside the vagina), and a woman may not know she has the infection. She can then pass the infection to her sexual partner without even knowing it.

Will warts go away on their own?

Sometimes yes and sometimes no. Often warts disappear on their own, although it may take many months, or even years, for the warts to go away. Some warts won't go away on their own. It is not known why some warts disappear on their own and others do not.

Do warts need to be treated?

Generally, yes. Warts are often bothersome. They can bleed and cause pain when they're bumped. They also can grow on the face—and most people don't want to have warts on their face. Treatment also may decrease the chance that the warts will be spread to other areas of your body or to other people.

How are warts removed?

First of all, it is important to know that warts on the skin, such as on the fingers, feet and knees, and warts on the genitals are removed in different ways. Don't try any home remedies or over-the-counter drugs for warts on the genital area. You could damage your genital area by putting certain chemicals on it.

Below are some ways that warts may be removed from the skin:

Applying salicylic acid—For warts on places such as the hands, feet or knees, one treatment method is to put salicylic acid on the warts. To get good results, the acid must be applied every day for many weeks. After you take a bath or shower, pat your skin slightly dry with a towel. Then put salicylic acid on the warts. The acid sinks in deeper and works better when it is applied to damp skin. Before you take a shower or a bath the next day, use an emery board or pumice stone to file away the dead surface of the wart.

Applying liquid nitrogen—Your doctor may use liquid nitrogen to freeze the wart. This treatment is called cryotherapy. Applying liquid nitrogen to the wart causes a little discomfort. To completely remove a wart, liquid nitrogen treatments may be needed every one to three weeks for about two to four times. If no improvement is noted, another type of treatment may be tried.

Other treatments for warts on the skin—Other ways to remove warts on the skin include burning the wart, cutting out the wart and removing the wart with a laser. These treatments are stronger, but they may leave a scar. Ask your doctor about the risks and benefits of these treatments before you make the decision about the kind of treatment to have for your warts.

How are warts in the genital area treated?

As mentioned above, warts on the genital area aren't treated exactly like warts on the skin. Below are some ways that warts on the genitals can be treated:

Applying liquid nitrogen—Warts on the genitals may be frozen with liquid nitrogen (cryotherapy). With liquid nitrogen treatment, the doctor applies the liquid nitrogen again and again at different office visits until the warts are completely gone.

Applying podophyllin—Warts on the genitals may be treated with podophyllin weekly by your doctor and washed off after six hours. Alternatively, you may put podofilox (Condylox) on the warts two times a day at home for three days, and then rest for four days. This is repeated weekly until the warts are gone.

CO2 laser surgery—For large warts in the genital area, laser surgery may be needed for complete removal.

Interferon injections—When genital warts don't go away after they've been treated with different methods, an interferon injection into the warts may be tried. Interferon is a chemical that our bodies make. It helps our immune system fight infection. An injection of interferon into the wart may help your body's immune system fight the virus that is causing the wart. Generally, interferon is injected into warts twice a week for up to eight weeks or until the warts are gone.

Do warts ever come back?

Most of the time, treatment of warts is successful and the warts are gone for good. Your body's natural immunity can usually succeed in getting rid of any tiny bits of wart that may be left after a wart has been treated. If warts come back, though, see your doctor right away to talk about other ways in which the wart can be treated.

Post Veterinarian Encourages Avid Microchip

A simple injection means a lifetime of protection for your animal.

Statistics show 1 out of 3 family pets will be lost. Unfortunately, only 10 percent of lost pets are identified. With the Microchip program, a scanner is used to retrieve your pet's I.D. number immediately. The I.D. number is entered into a computer where an extensive database matches the I.D. number with pertinent information about you, the owner. What this means is a quicker reunion with your lost pet and reduced chances he will be taken to the pound or animal shelter. Veterinarians agree that the Avid Microchip is the identification method of choice. A simple and safe injection gives your pet permanent identification.

For details, ask your veterinarian (242-7718), or call 1-800-336-AVID

Army delays new PT standards

Washington (Army News Service, Oct. 7, 1998) —

The Army has delayed implementation of the new Army Physical Fitness Test standards indefinitely.

The new standards were originally scheduled to take effect Oct. 1, but are on hold until the Army completes analysis of data collected from field commanders over the past year, according to Department of the Army officials.

When the Army announced the proposed new standards last October, commanders were instructed to begin training their soldiers to the new standards and to provide feedback. Analyzing the commanders' input is a critical step in ensuring the new standards are a valid yardstick to measure physical fitness for all soldiers, a Department of the Army officials said.

Until the analysis is completed, officials said the old standards and current score cards will be used for all PT tests. (From a Department of the Army News Release)

A chance to lead and apply your professionalism, self motivation and integrity.

What higher honor, than to carry the American Flag.

*NCO - you're out there

BE ALL YOU CAN BE.

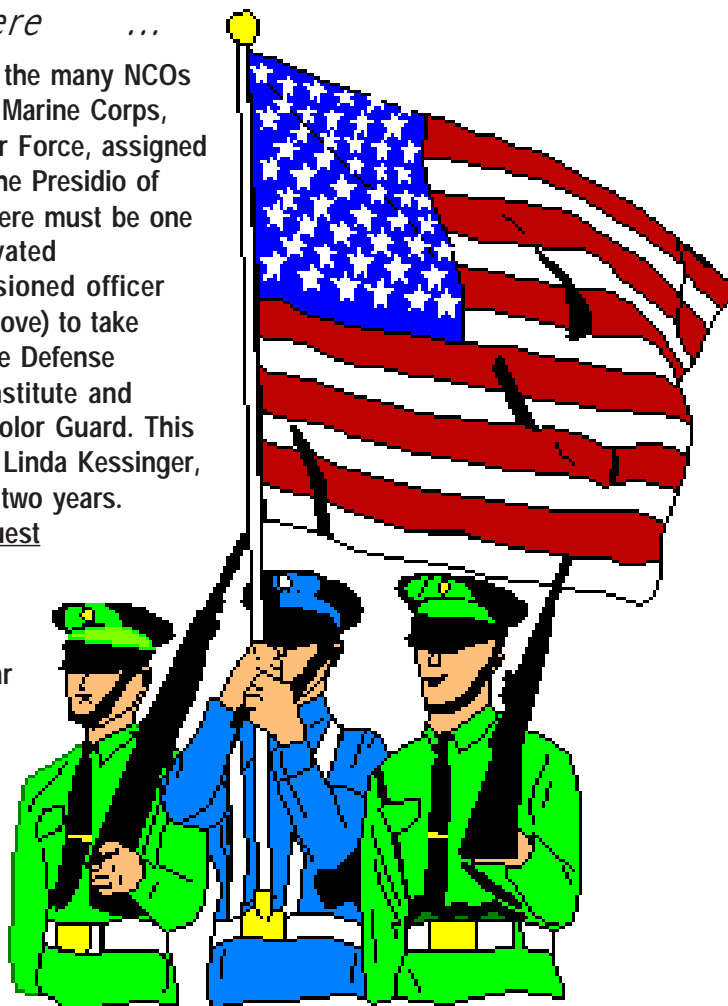

Amongst all the many NCOs in the Army Marine Corps, Navy and Air Force, assigned to DLI and the Presidio of Monterey, there must be one highly motivated noncommissioned officer (SSG and above) to take charge of the Defense Language Institute and Presidio of Monterey Joint Service Color Guard. This is to replace the current NCOIC, SFC Linda Kessinger, who held the position steadfastly for two years. Kessinger will be PCSing soon. Request response by Oct. 31.

This position offers leadership time. You will represent DLI at numerous events throughout the year most of which support local community functions to include opening ceremonies at professional sporting events held in the San Francisco area. Class A's required for most functions. NCOIC traditionally carries the national colors. A great position — the chance of a lifetime to carry the national flag at every function, such as retirements, changes of command, downtown parades, rodeos and for luncheons for Kiwanis and VFW. As NCOIC, you'll automatically meet others in the local community. This is a dynamic career and personal growth opportunity. Be a leader, a doer. Real responsibility is not just doing the tasking because your name is on a roster, instead it's when you make the dedicated decision to go the long haul; giving, because you want to give. Just like in any volunteer job, this position can help add to your resume and then some - you're a leader.

Average color guard commitments/jobs: three per month. Color guard practice is usually conducted every Tuesday and Thursday from 4 to 5 p.m. As leader you'll be in charge of two teams, seven per team, with an assistant NCO who's currently in place. Call SFC Kessinger at 242-6319 or 242-5177.

Golfers raise $4,000 toward new veterans van during E-9 Association Golf Tourney

By Bob Britton

Retired military golfers raised $4,000 toward a replacement van for the Monterey County Veterans Service Office. The Monterey Bay Retired E-9 Association sponsored a two-man team best-ball fundraising golf tournament at the Monterey Pines, formerly the Naval Postgraduate School, golf course Oct. 3.

Chuck Hopper, the association's secretary and a past president, coordinated the tourney with hole sponsors, entrants and arranged greens fees from different area golf courses as prizes. During the one-day event under slightly windy and sunny skies, 48 duffers challenged the 18-hole layout. It was complete with noise from approaching and departing airplanes from adjacent Monterey Peninsula Airport, geese on the fairways, water hazards, sand traps, rough, doglegs right and left, blind holes, fairways and greens. Afterward competitors and some spouses enjoyed a barbecue lunch.

For the winning golfers, Wason Carter had a low gross score of 75. Mario Champaco and Kim Torre earned first place in the two-man team event, followed by the second place duo of Wason Carter and Bill Watts. The next five teams included Mike Pablo with Olie Miolla, Monte Webb and Sherman Smith, Jess Tolson and Jake Kapowich, Tony and Jess Barcinas, and Dick Darvey and Leon Doubek.

While all golfers enjoyed their 18-hole rounds of golf, association members Joe Rodriguez, Dave Curran, Benn Murray, Sam Daniels and others prepared the barbecue food and refreshments.

Each year the association sponsors a spring golf event to raise money for the Army Emergency Relief Fund. This fall tourney marked the first time funds were designated for the replacement van. So far, different veterans organizations have raised about $13,000 toward a new and larger vehicle.

The county Veterans Service Office operates two vans to take patients and attendants up to the San Jose Veterans Affairs Clinic or the VA Hospital at Palo Alto for weekday appointments. One van holds seven passengers while the other can accommodate 10. Although the primary patients needing rides are older or disabled veterans, these free rides also are open to active duty service members or their spouses. A similar van service operates from the Monterey County VA Clinic at Fort Ord, which also treats TRICARE active duty service members and their spouses.

VSO vans depart at 7:15 a.m. from in front of the VSO office, 555 Reservation Road, Marina. Van drivers pick up Salinas patients at 7:30 a.m. by Carl's Jr. restaurant on Post Road across from the Salinas Post Office, and travel up to the San Jose VA Clinic and the Palo Alto VA Hospital. The return trip leaves Palo Alto about 2:30 p.m. and stops at the same places and arrives back in Marina between 4:30 and 5 p.m. Frequently the VSO has a long waiting list for the van patients, so it is advisable to call ahead of time and make a reservation with Joe Vargo, the van coordinator, at (831) 384-0605, extension 15.

Red Cross Hurricane Relief Efforts in Full Swing Across the Central Coast

MONTEREY, October 5, 1998 -- The Red Cross is providing manpower to meet the disaster caused needs of victims throughout the Gulf Coast states. A total of 18 disaster volunteers from Monterey County, San Benito County, and Santa Cruz County have been deployed to meet the needs of those adversely affected by Hurricane Georges. Monterey County Red Cross veteran Disaster Services volunteer Jess Raya and Assistant Disaster Services Director, Cliff Thornburg (formerly of the Presidio of Monterey Red Cross) arrived in Pascagula, Miss., on Friday, Sept. 25 after driving over 2,000 miles to support the relief efforts of the Red Cross.

The two drove the Monterey County Chapter's Emergency Response Vehicle which, when fully loaded, can feed up to 3,000 people per day. "We've been providing critical items to disaster victims to allow them to start their lives over again," said Thornburg. "We're responsible for moving needed supplies to drivers who take the items to affected areas," he said.

Ray and Thornburg are part of a group of American Red Cross personnel who are sent on assignment across the United States when disaster strikes. Raya, a veteran of the Disaster Services Human Resources system, has been on 20 disaster assignments in the last 10 years. "It just makes me feel good to know that I'm helping people," said Raya. "It's wonderful to look into the eyes of someone who needs help and be able to offer them a little assistance. That's why I volunteer with the Red Cross."

Funds are urgently needed. All American Red Cross disaster assistance is free, made possible by voluntary donations of time and money from the American people. To help victims of this and other disasters, contribution can be made to the American Red Cross Disaster Relief Fund by calling 1-800-HELP-NOW (for Spanish, call 1-800-257-7575).

Contributions for the Disaster Relief Fund may be sent to the following:

1. Your local American Red Cross Chapter in Monterey or Salinas:

Monterey: P.O. Box 853, Monterey, CA 93940-0853

Salinas: 942 Lupin Dive, Salinas, CA 93906-3996

2. The American Red Cross in Washington, D.C.:

P.O. Box 37243, Washington, D.C. 20013.

3. Via Internet: make a secure online credit card contribution by visiting the following web site: www.redcross.org

The Monterey County Red Cross would like to thank and acknowledge Whole Foods Market of Monterey for assisting victims of Hurricane Georges by making Red Cross donation boxes available to shoppers at the store's checkout lines. "... by making donation boxes...it's our way of showing support for an agency that gives so much to others," said Dori Beron, Whole Foods Shift Manager.
